VOL. CXXXI— 54. ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA. THURSDAY, MARCH 4 1915. PRICE, 2 CENTS

CONGRESS PASSES THE OMNIBUS BILL

Virginia Will Receive Half Million Dollars by Measure

$18,700 FOR THIS CITY

Most of Churches in Alexandria and This Congressional District Are The Beneficiaries.

Washington, March 4th.
Editor Alexandria Gazette:

The omnibus civil war claims bill, carrying appropriations of nearly $500,000 for the state of Virginia, $250,000 for my district, and $15,000 for the churches of Alexandria, passed the House at 4 o'clock this morning, and as the bill had already passed the Senate it became a law at 11:50 this morning when it was signed by President Wilson.

In my work for the passage of this bill I felt that I was doing a duty toward all the people of Eighth Congressional district for theirs was a just claim against the government for the damage caused by the federal soldiers during the civil war.

The claims were a heritage left to me by former representatives, and I am naturally gratified that their payment will be made during my term of office.

The passage of the bill through the Senate was due to the loyal support of the two Senators of Virginia, Hon. Thomas S. Martin and Claude A. Swanson.

CHARLES C. CARLIN

TURKISH VESSELS LEAVE SUDDENLY

Great Britain Lands Troops and Begins Attacks on Forts

SHIPS VANISH IN FOG

Moslems Believed to Have Withdrawn to Approaches of Constantinople Ready to Enter Black Sea.

London, March 4—The Turkish fleet, assigned to give battle to the Anglo-French warships inside the Dardanelles, has fled at the approach of the allied war squadron according to Athens dispatches.

Great Britain has landed an expeditionary force of colonial troops from Egypt and land operations against the remaining Turkish forts have begun.

While a heavy fog hung over the strait, the Turkish fleet lifted anchor and steamed silently out of Nagara roads into the Sea of Marmora. With the lifting of the mist, allied aviators reported not a single Turkish warship in the strait and reconnoitering flights far up Marmora Sea failed to reveal their whereabouts.

Admiralty official admits they are puzzled at the mysterious disappearance of the Turkish war craft. When the bombardment of the Dardanelles began, nearly the entire naval forces of the Sultan were concentrated in the narrows of Nagara road to block the progress of the allied fleet toward Constantinople.

The successful advance of the Anglo French warships brought them to within six miles of the spot where the enemy's fleet was concentrated.

The Turks are believed to have withdrawn to the very approach of Constantinople, prepared to pass the Bosphorus and enter the Black Sea if the Ottoman capital falls.

KENDRICK TO BE POSMASTER

Senate Confirms Nomination at 3 O'clock Yesterday Morning.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—The Senate in executive session about 3 o'clock yesterday confirmed the nomination of E. S. Kendrick as postmaster at Bristol, Va., Walter Fauntleroy, at Altavista, and John S. Snavely at Chilhowie.

Kendrick was recommended by Senators Martin and Swanson last Saturday to succeed Charles Gauthier, the Republican postmaster, who has held the office since it was established about two years ago, and was nominated by the President at midnight Monday.

It seemed probable a fight would be made by some Republican senators to allow Gauthier to serve longer, but the nomination coming as Congress is about to adjourn made opposition useless, as President Wilson could give Kendrick a recess appointment next Friday, even if his confirmation was prevented.

PIPE SPARK FATAL TO BOY

Terrible Burns From Fired Clothing Ends in Death in Hospital.

Bridgeton, N. J., March 4.—Burns caused the death of Peter A. Degan, 12 years old son of Gise Degan, a farmer living near here, at Bridgeton Hospital Monday morning

The little fellow was riding along near his home with Frank A. Earnest Sunday night, when Earnest lighted his pipe and a spark fell upon the child's clothing and fired it.

Frightened, the youngster jumped from the wagon and ran toward his home. Before he reached there he was a mass of flames, which were beaten out by the father, who noticed him coming. Only the bands of the clothing remainded upon the body.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Major Richard Sylvester, chief of the Metropolitan police, today formally petitioned the District Commissioners to be allowed to retire on a pension. Charges against him will be dropped.

A fire of unknown origin in the Havenner Baking Company building on C street, near Sixth street northwest Washington, did damage estimated at $11,000. This is covered by insurance. The fire originated in the bread and rolls bakery rooms. The roof was burned off. Damage to the ovens is said to be considerable because water flooded them while at a baking heat.

Billy Sunday has received a call to Paris, he announced in Philadelphia last night. "I have a letter from the American vice consul general, inviting me over there," he said, "but there is enough hell in the U. S. to keep your Uncle Fuller busy. So no Paree for me."

Charging that the proposed organization of the American Legion of 300,000 former officers and soldiers of the regular army as a reserve force is in direct violation of the laws of many States, out of harmony with the Constitution, and a "menace to the peace of the United States that ought not to be tolerated," Senator Chamberlain, of Oregon, chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, yesterday delivered the severest arraignment yet made against the new military body being hatched in New York City. The Senator said such an aggregation would overshadow our little standing army of about 65,000 men. Such an army as the American Legion, led by some popular, well known man, also would be able to pick up quite a revolution.

The Carranza forces attacking Monterey, Mexico, yesterday captured Canon de Huajuaco, an important strategic position near the beleaguered city. The Villa army, under General Raul Madero, was routed and surrendered many prisoners. The Villa forces within Monterey are short of ammunition and it is said black smallpox has broken out in the town. Villa cannot send re-enforcements, as he has no coal with which to operate his locomotives.

Paul Fleischer and Joseph Lemrick, the former a retired business man and the latter a delicatessen dealer, were killed yesterday when their wagon was struck by a southbound Springfield Conn. Trolley.

While trying to rob the safe of the Gonic Manufacturing Company at Gonic, a suburb of Rochester, N. H., Walter Marison, 23, a Boston theological student, was shot and fatally wounded by Adelbert Lyte, a substitute night watchman, after a desperate struggle. Marison, who has been preaching in New Hampshire towns while on his vacation, when told by physicians that he could live only a few hours, confessed he was after money, saying he needed it to pay his divinity school tuition. Marison died later in the hospital.

The North German Gazette announces that the daily bread ration throughout the empire has been fixed at 200 grames (a little less than half a pound) of bread or flour per capita from March 15, instead of 225 grammes, the amount previously permitted. The returns on stocks of grain and flour taken on February 1, which now have been received, show that there is enough of these supplies to continue the earlier ration until the next harvest.

A strong plea for divorce was the Lenten sermon delivered by Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the fashionable Church of the Ascension in New York, yesterday. "Divorce," he declared, "is not so selfishly individualistic as it seems to the ultraconservative. Woman has attained an economic independence and is no longer forced to remain married to a man who has become adhorrent to her."

Mrs. Arthur Talbot and her three children were burned to death in their home at Quebec yesterday.

SESSION EXPIRED AT NOON TODAY

Gavels of Vice President and the Speaker Fall Simultaneously

TWO YEARS' SESSION

Both Houses Struggle Through Business, Clearing Up Tangle Over Appropriation Bills.

Washington, March 4—A session of Congress remarkable for its important legislation precedent smashing and ability to hang on came to an end at noon today.

The fall of gravels in the Senate and House echoed in halls that have been occupied for almost two years by ever busy legislators. Congress has been in session practically all of the time since April 7, 1913, when President Wilson, himself new to the Presidential chair, called into extraordinary session the Democratic spokesmen who had been elected with him to carry out the party's policies.

Facing the end of the short session and also the expiration of the Sixty-third Congress the Senate and House this forenoon struggled through the business of clearing up the tangle over appropriation bills.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the President, accompanied by Secretary Tumulty and Secret Service men, arrived at the Capitol. He went to the President's room and began at once to signing bills.

Secretaries Bryan, Garrison, Daniels, Redfield, McAdoo, and Houston also arrived at the Capitol.

With ship purchase dead beyond hope of resurrection unless it be in the distant future of the next session, with a resolution adopted to strengthen the hand of the President in maintaining neutrality the chief problem before Congress as the hour of twelve drew near was to dispose of the supply measures.

This morning all the supply bills had been passed but the Indian bill and the postoffice bill. A filibuster developed in the Senate against the Indian bill which was brought to a close with defeat for the bill. It was laid aside for good and a continuing resolution, which had already been passed by the House, was put through.

This means that the Indian appropriation measure for the current fiscal year is continued for the next fiscal year.

The Senate later passed the continuing resolution on the postoffice appropriation bill, definitely disposing of this measure also.

WHITE CAPS IN OHIO.

Warn Constable to Leave County or Suffer Death.

Kenton, Ohio, March 4.—"Whitecaps," who terrorized sections of Ohio many years ago, appeared again in this section Tuesday night, and warned Constable Bets Obenour, of Washington township, to get out of Hardin county or suffer the death penalty.

A number of years ago women and men were flogged and tortured in otherways, homes were wrecked and houses and crops destroyed by the dreaded "Whitecaps" in visiting vengance upon those who had fallen under their displeasure.

Hardin county officials are preparing for trouble. The citizens are terror-stricken, fearing a resumption of the raids and whippings.

The "Whitecappers" made their appearance Tuesday night in the village of Dola. A crowd of a dozen, mounted on horses, and with white caps pulled over their heads, drove into the village at midnight and posted the following notice on a telephone pole and departed.

"It has been resolved by the committee on thugs that Bets Obernour shall be visited by the Order of Whitecaps between the dates of March 16 and 31, unless further notice is given. Death is the penalty."

ALLEGED "FRAME UP"

Dynamiters Lay Blame of Plot in New York Upon Detectives

New York, March 4—Frank Afarno and Charles Carbone, indicted late yesterday on the charge of plotting to explode two dynamite bombs in St. Patrick's Cathedral Tuesday morning, made the statement last night in their cells in the Tombs that they were the victims of a frame up.

Abarno, who speaks English, acted as interpreter for Carbone. He declared that the main point they both wished to make plain was that they were "framed up" by their supposed comrade, Detectives Poligani, who was known to them as Frank Baldo. The latter, they asserted was the brains of the conspiracy.

"We would not have ventured into the scheme if it was not for the urging of Baldo," said Abarno. "It was he who met Carbone last December in the basement of the Bresci headquarters in East 106th street——"

"Yes," interrupted Carbone, "he met and took walks with me, and explained that it was time that the hated capitalists were blown off the earth."

Abarno declared hat Baldo was the first of the three to buy any of the bomb making ingredients. Carbone had bought some other material later but Baldo procured the last important chemical only a few days ago, Abarno said.

"Carbone did the work, aided by Baldo," he said. "Baldo kept urging me on," Carbone interrupted.

Both prisoners charged that Baldo selected St. Patrick's Cathedral, and showed them where to place the infernal machine. It was Baldo they said who mentioned the names of Rockefeller, Carnegie and others as fit subject for the wrath of all class-hating free thinkers.

"We were the tools of the police, anxious to make a showing; the victims of a frame up, and if it had not been for Baldo we would never have gone as far as we did" said Abarno

"I changed my mind about it in church when I saw that so many people were around," he declared. "If I had had a chance I would have left Sunday night. If we had had a chance Carbone and I would have destroyed the bombs."

"Baldo said we must go on," broke in Carbone. "He said we were stupids that we were cowards: that we were worse than the wealthy because we would not help our own."

DEATH OF COL. DAY.

Virginian Was Father-in-Law of Senator Martin.

Baltimore, March 4.—Col. C. Fenton Day, of Smithfield, Pa., died unexpectedly at Johns Hopkins Hospital yesterday morning. He was 66 years old. He had been in Baltimore a month, had apparently improved and hoped to return soon to Smithfield. The change for the worse came suddenly and he expired in a few minutes.

Colonel Day was the father-in law of United States Senator Thomas S. Martin and for years was prominent in politics in the Second Virginia district. The death a few weeks ago of his daughter, Mrs. Martin, was a shock that increased his feebleness.

He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Jordan, of the Isle of Wight; a daughter, Mrs. Henry Gould Rolston, of Miami, Fla., and four grandchildren.

The body will be sent to Smithfield, Va., for burial. The services will be held tomorrow morning in Christ Protestant Episcopal Church, that city.

GERM DISEASES LESS IN VIRGINIA

Gains are Shown in Fight on Typhoid and Infantile Diseases

TUBERCULOSIS GAINS.

Increase in Deaths From Consumption Due to Neglect—High Death Rate Among Negroes.

Richmond, March 4—Germ diseases were the losers during 1914 in their fight against improved sanitary conditions in Virginia, and claimed less victims by 309 than during the year 1913, according to the preliminary vital statistics for the year, just tabulated by the State Board of Health.

Substantial gains were made in the popular fight against typhoid fever and the diarrhoeal diseases of infants owing in part, it is stated to the comparatively mild summer. There were 125 fewer deaths from typhoid during 1914 and 378 fewer deaths from infantile diarrhoea than in 1913. Measles, scarlet fever and diptheria of the preventable diseases were also less fatal. Pneumonia, in the prevention of which modern hygiene plays a part, claimed fewer victims by forty three than during 1913. The preliminary statistics likewise show a decline of 315 in the number of violent deaths, other than suicide.

On the other side of the account, the State Board of Health reports an increase of eleven in the deaths from malaria, of ten from smallpox and of seventeen from suicide. Much more ominous however, in the eyes of health authorities, is a gain of 120 during 1914 in the number of deaths from tuberculosis of the lungs and a suprising increase of 338 in the deaths from whooping cough.

"The number of deaths from whooping cough," says the board in its comment on the new statistics, "is attributable to an unusual series of outbreaks in various parts of the State. These are expected from time to time, and cannot be prevented without great care on the part of parents but those of 1914 were severe in the extreme. The only consolation to be found in it is the virtual assurance this mortality gives that the State will not probably be again visited by so severe an outbreak for some years to come.

"The number of deaths from tuberculosis of the lungs, 3,304 for 1914, as compared with 3,184 for 1913, is what we may expect from our continued neglect of this most fatal of all diseases. The white death rate from consumption in Virginia is not above that of the country as a whole but that of our negroes, and especially of the city negroes, is positively appalling. Unless the disease is checked among the colored population, their dismal mortality from this cause will be reflected in a higher death rate among the whites."

VIRGINIAN IS DIRECTOR

Robert W Wooley of Fairfax Succeeds G. E. Roberts of Iowa

Washington, March 4—The president sent to the Senate this week the nomination of Robert Wickliffe Wolley, of Fairfax Va., to be director of the mint, to succeed George F. Roberts, of Iowa. who resigned after serving in the office almost continuously since the Mc Kinley administration, to accept the place of assistant to the president of the National City Bank of New York.

Woolley was at one time connected with New York newspapers and later entered magazine work. He was associated with William G. McAdoo in the campaign of 1912, and was at one time slated for assistant secretary of the treasury. But some of his magazine stories, reflecting upon Senators, were resurrected, and trouble threatened. He was finally appointed auditor of the Interior Department.

TESS OF THE STORM COUNTRY

Turner Company Scores a Big Success at the Opera House.

Clara Turner and her company of players scored another great success last night at the Opera House by their fine performance of "Tess of the Storm Country." It must be said that this is one of the finest plays seen in Alexandria for some time, in fact it is equally as well acted as could be expected in Washington or any big city.

Miss Clara Turner gave a charming performance of the title part. It brought forth all the good that was in this clever little actress, and that is no small amount. Her acting was delightful, and the blend of comedy and emotion was well done.

Jim Hammond gave an excellent account of himself as the minister struggling between love, duty and his calling of the church.

All the other members of the company were good in their parts, and on the whole it greatly pleased the audience which was a large one. "Tess of the Storm Country," will be repeated again tonight.

ELECTRIC CAR SERVICE

Quicker Time and Additional Cars Are Contemplated by the Management

Officials of the Washington-Virginia Railway, which operates the electric car line between Washington, Alexandria and Mt. Vernon, will on Monday night confer with the members of the Chamber of Commerce in reference to the car service and schedule. Several weeks ago the company discontinued the use of trailers on its trains in the middle of the day, and, as a result, there has been some complaint of overcrowding and also of the inability of the conductors to enforce the law requiring the separation of the white and colored passengers. Two new steel cars which have a capacity for 64 persons have been placed in operation and with these cars no trailers are used.

The company recently purchased five cars ofthis design. Three are in use on the Falls Church division but Superintendent Clift is trying to secure their assignment to the Alexandria division.

Superintendent Percy E. Clift stated today that the discontinuance of the trailers was an experiment. The company is now working on a new schedule which will give quicker service between Washington and Alexandria, as one car trains can make the trip in 30 minutes instead of the 35 minutes now required. It is also expected to increase the number of single trains so that there will be a train in each direction every 15 minutes instead of every 20 minutes with an even greater number of trains during the rush hours in the morning and evening.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICE.

Last evening at the Second Presbyterian Church Rev. Dr. W. R. McElroy preached on from Saul to Paul on from persecutor to preacher. Dr. McElroy said that Saul was an ideal illustration of conversion. He said a man's conscience is not an infallable guide, it must be an enlightened christian conscience and that the main thing in conversion is the surrender of the will to God.

Dr. McElroy will speak this evening to the young people of the Sabbath schools. Song service 7:45 p. m.

FIGHT 3,000 FEET IN AIR.

Russian Aviators Battle With Austrian Prisoners in Aeroplane

Pearograd, March 4—For the first time in history prisoners of war have been transported by aeroplane Reconnoitering with his mechanican Paschaloff was forced to descend inside the enemy's lines in southwest Poland because of engine trouble An Austrian patrol surprised him while he was making repairs. Paschaloff turned his machine gun upon the enemy, killing five.

The sixth member of the patrol was captured by the mechanician. Paschaloff removed his belt forced the Austrian to seat himself on the frame of the biplane, and tied his hands around one of the wire uprights. Then he started to return to the Russian lines.

Crossing the Austrian lines the aviator was subjected to heavy rifle fire. The prisoner managed to loosen his bonds and attempted to tear the lever from Paschaloff's grasp and dash the machine to earth. Paschaloff turned the levers over to his mechanician. Three thousand feet above the ground the gusts of wind tilting the biplane perilously, Austrian and Russian grappled behind the pilot's seat.

Paschaloff seized a wrench and dealt his opponent a heavy blow on the head, stunning him. The Austrian was brought safely into the Russian camp.

HEARING SET FOR APRIL 19

West Virginia Debt Case to Be Argued Before Supreme Court

Washington, March 4.—Attorney General Lilly, of West Virginia, has filed with the Supreme court exceptions to the report of Special Master Littlefield, in the Virginia-West Virginia debt case. He contended that the master should not have held West Virginia liable for interest on its share of the old Virginia debt from 1861; and that valuation of stock held by Virginia at separation of the two States should have been based only on the "book," value instead of an average of the "book" and "dividend values" Hearing on the bill of exceptions was set for April 19

"EVERYTHING COMES TO HIM WHO WAITS."

The historic omnibus bill, which has been before Congress during the past twenty five years, has at last passed both Houses of Congress, and President Wilson signed it today Virginia will receive half a million dollars by the bill. The Virginia Military Institute is the largest beneficiary. That institution will get $100,000, and Alexandria $18,700. Churches in our city are mainly benefitted, these edifices having been used as barracks during the civil war by federal soldiers. All the buildings were more or less damaged and left in an unsightly condition at the close of hostilities.

The omnibus bill has been the heritage of every Congressman who has represented the Alexandria district during the past quarter of a century. The Court of Claims long ago adjudged the claims valid, but when they were brought before Congress the respective bodies at times adjourned leaving the bill upon the calendar. Sometimes the measure would get through one house but fail to be brought up in the other. This seasaw has been going on so long that the claimants had become pessimistic and wondered if Congress had any serious intention of passing the bill

Congressman Carlin is largely if not entirely responsible for the passage of the bill through the house. When he entered the house seven years ago there were three matters of local inmportance which he declared he hoped to accomplish during his congressional life. One was the passage of the ominbus bill paying the people of his district for the damage caused to their property by the federal soldiers during the civil war. Another was the passage of the bill returning to Virginia about $125,000 advanced by this state to the United Sates government during the erection of the capitol and which claim has been assigned by the state to the Mt. Vernon Avenue Association, the proceeds, when collected, to be used for the construction of the highway between Washington and the home of the first president. The third was the building of the Memorial bridge across the Potomac.

There were three big projects for any man to undertake but we have felt from the beginning that Mr. Carlin would accomplish them all. The most difficult of the three, the passage of the omnibus bill, has been brought to a successful completion. Almost alone in his fight in the house he refused to be discouraged and time after time when victory was almost in sight it faded away like a rainbow. His present victory, coming almost unheralded and a surprise to his grateful contituents, is the result of years of arduous labor.

Mr. Martin, of Virginia who is chairman of the finance committee of the Senate has worked in season and out of season in efforts to bring fruition to the hopes of those interested. He has been ably assisted by Senator Swanson.

It was a principle, we are told, of Napoleon and Frederick the Great to repudiate all claims for damages during wars on general principles. The wheels of legislation looking to the relief of persons who have suffered from hostilities in the United States have always revolved slowly, and most of the people directly interested in the omnibus bill have died without realizing any benefits of their labors. They can be likened to men who plant trees, but never live to enjoy the fruit. The grandfathers and fathers of the present generation nurtured the ominbus bill in their day and their descendants are to gather the fruit.

Speaking of the snail's pace of claims for damages in war times, a French spoliation claim was allowed this week which had been urged at different times during the past century. Our omnibus bill has hung fire only three fourths of that time.

Nearly all the churches of Alexandria were used by soldiers at times during the war. Some in this vicinity were used by cavalry regiments for themselves and horses. At the close of the conflict while the work of repair was costly, this was augmented by labors equal to those of Hercules in cleaning the Augean Stables

REMINISCENCE OF LONG AGO.

Fifty-four years ago today Abraham Lincoln was inaugurated President of the United States. With tremulous lips the rugged American delivered an address on that occasion but little appreciated by a large percentage of those who had gathered at the east front of the Capitol, but which studied after factional and sectional fires have died out is found to be a classic of its kind.

Probably a more good-natured appeal to man's reason was never uttered. At times the humor of the speaker would force half smiles which, however, were soon overshadowed by more serious thoughts.

Lincoln had reached Washington incognito and took up his abode at the Willard Hotel, then the leading hostelry of the capital city. His arrival had been unannounced, and his presence was not known until William H. Seward, later his Secretary of State, recognized him as he stepped from an omnibus. While cool and collected, he had an anxious mien which remained with him until the eventful night of April 14, 1865, when he became the victim of an assassin.

A prominent man of that day occupied a room in the hotel adjoining that assigned Mr. Lincoln. The former stated later that he was kept awake the entire night by the President-elect. Mr. Lincoln never closed his eyes, but literally prayed until the break of day. He merely asked of the Creator wisdom to govern the people over whom he was about to be placed, and over and over again recited the history of Solomon who, having been given carte blanc, upon Jehovah, had asked a similar blessing.

While Lincoln's political predilections were at great variance from those of most of us of the southern country at that time, the half century that has followed has caused the great mass to realize the fact that "Honest Abe," a name applied to him by his friends, was not a misnomer.

Two years ago today another great American was inducted into the Presidential chair. Lincoln was according to his convictions, faithful during the four years which tried men's souls. While there are no internal broils that are likely to cause trouble among ourselves, the United States, while the fearful war in Europe is in progress, is passing through rapids in which dangerous rocks occasionally appear. The country has faith in the navigator, and, so far, he has shown his skillfulness. If the passengers will leave the pilot house to him the lookoutmen will continue the assuring cry that all is well.

Pfeil drank the whole quart while the crowd looked on.

NEW DRUG LAW

Woman, Unable to Obtain Laudanum Commits Suicide in Norfolk.

Norfolk, March 4—A Norfolk physician speaking yesterday of the effect of the new Federal and local laws restricting the sale of habit-forming drugs, said that it will be a very serious matter with those people in Norfolk who have formed the habit of taking these drugs, and who have been suddenly deprived of them—said drugs being only sold now upon a physician's prescription.

He pointed out the case of a Norfolk woman who had been addicted to the use of laudanum, and who, he said was the victim of the recent prohibition of the sale of that drug except on prescription—she having died this week under circumstances which left little or no room to doubt that she committed suicide.

This woman, he said, went to several drugs stores the day she died and tried to buy the drug, but was refused, not having a prescription. He says having formed the habit of taking such drugs such people simply must have them. He had the fear that there would be other cases like hers through the operation of said law.

The city law prevents the sale of paregoric, except on a prescription.

TO HONOR HERO OF CRATER

Petersburg Daughters Will Erect Monument to General Mahone

Petersburg ,Va., March 4—Under the auspices of Petersburg Chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy a fund is being raised for the erection of a monument to Gen. William Mahone, the hero of the battle of the Crater.

At a meeting of the chapter held yesterday afternoon it was reported that liberal contributions to the monument fund had been received from various camps of Confederate Veterans throughout the State. The proposed monument is to cost about $5,000. Two sites in Prince George county have been offered for it, one on the Crater battle field and the other on the Dun's farm, where stood Fort Mahone. The city of Petersburg will be asked for an appropriation to the monument fund and also for a site. Should the city donate a site it will probably be in Central park.

PREACHERS BEFORE JURY.

No Indictments Returned on Their Testimony as to Law Conditions In Danville.

Danville, Va., March 4—Rev. C. J. D. Parker and Rev. J. E. Hicks, D. D., were required yesterday morning to appear before the grand jury in session here. On Sunday Dr. Hicks charged that there were too many blind tigers in the city but stated that the police force is all the public wishes it to be. Dr. Parker a few weeks ago in a temperance speech intimated that there would be no diminution in crime in the city until sweeping reforms had been made in the police department. No indictments were brought in on the strength of the divines, testimony.

John Davis, a negro charged with robbing Julia Davis of $100 was given five years in the penitentiary.

Moses Max Levy, recently a candidate for the Board of Aldermen was indicted for selling whiskey without a license, and is at liberty on $500 bond.

EMIGRANTS FIND NO WORK

Shipped to Virginia By Employment Agency, and Now They are Stranded.

Petersburg, Va., March 4— About eighty Russian and Pole emigrants arrived in the city Tuesday having walked from City Point where they had been landed by the Old Dominion steamer. It is said that they were shipped to Virginia by an employment agency in New York to work for the Coleman Construction Co., and the Sherman Construction Company. There is no such concern as is the Sherman Construction Company, and the Coleman Construction Company, of Petersburg never had applied for any laborers. The men were in destitute circumstances. They were taken care of and fed by the Chamber of Commerce, and were furnished two cars by the Norfolk and Western Railroad Company, in which they slept Tuesday night. They will be sent back to New York by the Old Dominion steamer.
